

Ancient Faces Transcript

Hello All! Paul Hendee here for another Family Digging episode. I haven't got Carolyn here today - she's away.

While browsing the internet I happened to find something I thought I'd like to share with all the Family Diggers. I found an interesting website for genealogists recently while testing out my Google skills. Just when I thought I had been everywhere on the internet with genealogy I came up with this site called Ancient Faces. At first I thought it was just a place to upload old photos. I quickly found out while exploring it's a little more than that.

Ancient Faces is a genealogical sharing service on the internet. It began about 20 years ago and was the brainchild of Pam Marks, founder and visionary. Their mission statement is "We believe that everyone deserves to be remembered and it is up to each of us to show and tell their story". Ancient Faces is the catalyst for that. Not only do they allow the user to upload pictures of faces, they also allow the upload of all sorts of photos related to the person: Cemetery stones, houses, occupational photos, school photos, and more.

While uploading your family images you really do begin to tell your family story. Every time you upload a family photo, text boxes open up that ask you for more information. You can even add sources. All the time you are adding pictures and information you are building a family tree that you can share with others. You can invite friends and family to add to the tree with more photos and more information. Just send them a link.

Here's the interesting news, and you know me about this, it is FREE and always will be.

They also have excellent tech support that knows the platform and responds quickly. They even have their own YouTube training Channel: <https://www.youtube.com/user/djpinna> . You'll like it. (You'll find that in our transcripts too, so give them a try.)

Go to: <https://ancientfaces.com> to register for free and search for your family in the search panel at the top of the window.

Enjoy - and keep on digging

Paul here - bye now.
